

I am writing to express my concern over proposed rule changes which would give LPFM stations priority over FM translator service.

On a daily basis, I listen to K-LOVE, a wonderful, family-oriented Christian radio station, via an FM translator. K-LOVE provides commercial-free, high-quality programming that my entire family listens to. It is a source of both national and local programming that is unlike any other station in my area. There is strong evidence that K-LOVE's programming is valued in our community, since the station's only financial support is from listeners like me. Without an FM translator, I know that K-LOVE could not afford to broadcast in my community. Since few other stations carry the type of family-friendly program available on K-LOVE, this would certainly have a negative impact on my family and my city.

K-LOVE's programming serves the interests of the public by providing uplifting music and programming that needs no "delay" to ensure that it is suitable for children's ears. I urge you to protect current FM translator stations like K-LOVE.

Thank you for your consideration.
